DAYTIME FOLLIES

Step into a world of contrasts on lie des Deux Cocos. Along the north of the island, lie the pearl-white beaches and turquoise waters of the lagoon. Calm and inviting, the cool waters protect an outstanding nature reserve. View the vivid and varied underwater marine life their evocative names (Surgeonfish, clowns, Butterfly fish) as enchanting as their colours. On the other side of this stunning island see where the ocean opens out to the prevailing winds, presenting an ever-changing unspoilt spectacle of nature. Discover the enchanting "villa", built over 100 years ago by Sir Hesketh Bell, one of the first British governors to Mauritius. Flamboyant and eccentric Sir Hesketh Bell played host to glamorous and hedonistic parties at his hideaway villa. Known as "Follies", the building's architectural style is characterized by a mixture of styles, where British and Moorish influences mingle. In this magical setting, the bay still echoes with the sounds of the evenings of follies of times past.

FOOD AND ENTERTAINMENT

The buffet is in the spirit of the uniqueness of the island: a delicious mix of culinary styles. And when you hear the sounds of the acoustic guitars of our musicians and the svelte voices of the singers, you will be transported into another world. Enjoy as much beer, wine and soft drinks as you would like before a traditional farewell rum cocktail.

"FOLLIES"

Whether you choose to meander along the shady island paths, drift into the gentle island way of life under a palm tree, or explore the outstanding underwater marine life lie des Deux Cocos offers an exceptional and unforgettable experience.

Excursion could be done every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. The trip leaves at 8.30am from the hotel to return by 5pm.
